Strengths

Offense: Does a little bit of everything... Elite length operating on the perimeter as a wing... Solid spot up shooter... Good free-throw % and is a better shooter than stats indicate... Very fast with long strides... Great handle for his position... Absolutely wreaks havoc in the open court as a ball handler... Has moments of great passing vision... Can function as a team's primary ball handler... Overpowers smaller guards at the rim... Versatile transition player... Can go coast to coast off a rebound with ease.

Defense: Can really leverage his length on smaller guards and create turnovers... Has the physical attributes to guard 1 through 4 at the next level... Does a great job sticking with shooters... Great rebounder as a wing.

Weaknesses

Offense: Was really streaky shooting the ball... Seems like his confidence really wavers when shots aren't going in... Gets out of control in isolation situations... Will attempt impossible passes... Not a create decision maker out of the pick and roll yet... Needs to assert himself as a scorer more.

Defense: Got beat in 1 on 1 situations way too much... Lost his focus occasionally... Should really have higher steal and block percentages given his length and speed.

Intangibles

Harrell Jr. brings a frenetic and unpredictable energy every minute he's on the basketball court. He reads as a hobby and appears to be always be actively thinking which is not a bad thing... He still has NBA goals which means he is going to play hard and with a chip on his shoulder if he goes overseas. Hopefully his scoring assertiveness picks up as the fulcrum of DU's offense next season.

Overview

Ronnie Harrell Jr. is an extremely talented swingman who will be able to do a little bit of everything on either side of the ball. His length and speed on the perimeter are going to be a nightmare for a lot of defenders in Europe and if he can shoot it more consistently he will be able to score a lot of points. The athletic wing is also an adept playmaker who can lead the fast break and operate as a ball- handler and roller.
